Scroggins to Discuss Rights with Policemen

State's Atty. Leon Scroggins will discuss the rights of defendants in criminal cases with most police departments in the county at 7:30 p.m. next Monday in the courthouse at Edwardsville. He will stress details evolving from the U. S. Supreme Court's Miranda decision, including the necessity for properly advising the defendant of his rights and on procedures for admission of a confession into evidence.

Also to be discussed is the field of search and seizure, especially of vehicles.

The Supreme Court last June 13 overruled the conviction and 20 to 25 year sentence of Ernesto Miranda in Arizona on rape and kidnap charges because he had not been told of his constitutional rights to remain silent or ask for an attorney. Miranda has been convicted again on the same charges.

Scroggins is planning to discuss the same areas the following night with officers from the county sheriff's department and with the remaining police departments.

Course in Defensive Driving to Open Here

The Quad-Cities Safety Council in cooperation with the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an eight-hour "defensive driving course," with the initial session starting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Chamber's conference room, 1831 Delmar avenue.

Prospective enrollees may register to take the course by calling TR 6-4400. No age limit has been set.

Built around a number of concepts that apply to the way an individual drives, the course is a training program instituted by the National Safety Council for following exhaustive studies. Similar courses are being conducted in other communities.

Clifton E. Blankenship, A. O. Smith Corp. safety director and instructor for the series, said today that participation will enable motorists, experienced or otherwise, to view traffic situations in a new light and respond to them more quickly, thereby avoiding many types of accidents.

He said the decision to offer the course locally stems from the increased number of a traffic accidents in the Quad-Cities, a higher proportion than in some areas of the state, leading to increases in insurance rates.

Current plans call for enrollees to attend weekly two-hour sessions over a four-week period. If the initial program proves successful, Blankenship said, additional courses may be arranged.

Nurses to Hear Hospital 4-Meals-A-Day Plan

The expected impact on staff and patients when St. Elizabeth's Hospital's proposed "four-meals-a-day" program is inaugurated, will be discussed by Stephen Murphy, hospital food services director, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the hospital library.

The director's presentation is part of the continuing education program for nurses being conducted by the local hospital's training and education department.

All registered and practical nurses in the community are invited to participate in the series of monthly lectures, it was announced by Sister Mary Thomas. Murphy's topic will deal with a new meal plan whereby patients who are not restricted to special diets will be served an early "continental-type breakfast" consisting of coffee and rolls, followed with a main breakfast served at a slightly later hour.

Proved successful when instituted at other hospitals, the four-meals-a-day plan ensures those patients required to take early morning tests the opportunity to be served a regular breakfast meal when the tests are completed. Several other benefits may be found in the new plan, a hospital spokesman said.

A woodwind quintet composed of Barbara Fiffeld, Joyce Shepard, Cynthia Boyer, Terry Walker and Cathy Zenik received an excellent rating. Superior marks were awarded to the flute trio of Lois Rueker, Sharon Joyce and Nancy Zang and a saxophone quartet composed of Cathy Jung, Judy Ellidge, Joe Mercer and Terry Ellsworth.

The local ensembles were accompanied to Vandalia by Louis E. Meek, music supervisor.

Firemen were called to the Union Starch & Refinery Co. plant at 7:45 p.m. Thursday when an oil expeller became overheated. They were on the scene for 40 minutes.

A carburetor backfire caused $75 damage to a 1961 auto owned by James Griffin at Niedringhaus avenue and Chestnut streets, and a grass fire in the backyard scorched the siding of the Allen residence at 2418 East 25th street. Both occurred at 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

WITH COURTLY BOW, Mayor Stephen Maeras of Madison presents key to the city to one of the three women members of the 12-person delegation of education administrators from Vietnam. The group inspected Madison schools Friday in one of three Illinois tours. The group will be in the U. S. three months.

MORE ABOUT 12 Vietnamese

Mayor Stephen Maeras of Madison presented a key to the city to the group.

Prof. Darnell explained that names of the group members are not made public since they are government officials of South Vietnam and might be exposed to recriminations if their identities were made known. School administrators in South Vietnam are appointed by those in power within the province, Darnell said.

Their position as school administrator of a province is tantamount to that of a state superintendent of public instruction in this country, he explained.

Darnell said members of the group scheduled to visit schools in Harrisburg and in Harrisburg during their stay in Illinois, which should be for about three weeks. The visitors then will be assigned by the U. S. Office of Education to other parts of the country.

No special factors were weighed in selection of school districts to be visited, Prof. Darnell said. He said Madison was picked as a "representative" example of an American school district with a cross section of all facets of school operation. SIU was assigned to coordinate the Illinois visits because the university has been among the schools foremost in sending representatives to Vietnam.

B&PW Boss Night to Feature Program on 'Walk in Space'

Approximately 200 members and guests are expected to attend the Granite City Business and Professional Women's annual "Bosses' Night" banquet Wednesday evening at the Rose Bowl restaurant. A cocktail hour from 6-7 p.m. will precede the dinner.

Featured speaker will be Miles Raymond McClune, senior development technician at McDonnell Aircraft Corp., who will discuss details of the U. S. space program and a film, "Learning to Walk in Space."

In addition to honoring their employers, B&PW members will pay special tribute to Mrs. Catherine Michel of Michels Gift Shop, whose selection as "Woman of Achievement in Business," recently was announced.

A native of Parkersburg, Pa., the guest speaker is assigned to the Zero Gravity Training Flight program at the McDonnell firm. McClune's space walk simulations during the Gemini Missions were seen by millions of network television viewers as he performed on the ground various assignments being conducted simultaneously by the astronauts in flight.

According to Frank Purviance III, external relations director at the St. Louis firm, McClune has worked closely with most of the Gemini astronauts, including the late Gus Grissom, one of the three spacemen who lost their lives at Cape Kennedy in January.

Before joining McDonnell Corp. in 1964, the technician spent 22 years in the U. S. Navy as a parachute rigger chief. He also served as instructor and jump master at the Navy's parachute school and was a member of the Aviation Physiology Training Unit.

McClune, 44, is a member of the Space and Flight Equipment Society. He and his wife, Lila W. Wilkinson McClune, and their two children, Sandra and Michael, reside at 190 Commanche lane, Florissant, Mo.

During the banquet, McClune also plans to demonstrate an authentic space suit of the type used in the Gemini program and will conduct a question and answer session.

Mrs. Nina Bigley, B&PW president, reports that Wednesday's presentation will be the first public relations program to be offered by the St. Louis firm since the Cape Kennedy tragedy.

'Birdbath Convention' At Local Inn Explained

A. B. Mifflin didn't get his name in lights last week but he got what some would consider second best billing — a personal and unusual welcome by Sunset Holiday Inn emblazoned on its huge display sign.

Imagine Mifflin's surprise as he rounded the curve approaching the bird-bath inn. Before him in eight-inch letters was the message, "Welcome 'Alonso Birdbath Mifflin.'" The A. B. in his name really stands for Albert Bryan.

"It was like meeting my mother-in-law in Paris," commented Mifflin, who is coordinator of university graphics for both the Southwestern and Carbondale campuses of Southern Illinois University. "I didn't run off the road, but I did do a 'triple take'."

The cryptic names used by the inn management stemmed from an award given to the personnel there last Christmas by Mifflin, who stays at the inn frequently. His personal citation to the establishment was the "Alonso Birdbath Hospitality Award."

Mifflin, commonly known only as "A. B." or "Bud," had the plaque constructed and presented it to the inn's employees; ever since it has been on display in the lobby.

Most people staying at Sunset Holiday Inn get a kick out of the plaque, but an exception was one weary traveler who couldn't get a room because they were all reserved. Walking away from the clerk, he was heard to say, "You might know they'd all be taken for that darned birdbath convention."

Two silver beavers, top awards that can be given by a scout council, are to be presented along with 16 "Oscar" trophies, a woodbadge award and 15 "Wonderful World of Scouting" unit recognition awards.

Tickets costing $2.50 each have been placed on sale at the council service center in Granite City as well as at points in Collinsville, Edwardsville, Greenville and Highland. Deadline for the sale is April 1.

Kenneth Graham Wins in Optimist Oratorical Contest

Proving once again to be the unanimous first place choice in the Granite City Optimist's annual "Oratorical Contest," Kenneth Graham, 15, was voted the outstanding speaker Thursday evening for the fourth consecutive year.

More than 70 Optimist members and their guests witnessed the speaking event which was held with a dinner meeting at the Round Table restaurant near Collinsville.

Wilbert Triebes, Optimist president, welcomed the guests and the field of candidates was introduced by John Dreyes, Boy Scout chairman, who doubled as contest director.

Runners-up in the contest were Dan James, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. John James, 4120 South drive, a Coolidge junior high school freshman, second place; and Wesley Loper, 15, son of Mrs. Mary Jane Loper, 1613 Garfield avenue, a sophomore at Granite City high school, who took third place honors.

The Graham youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Graham, 2017 1/2 S. Main, presented an exceptional delivery, basing his speech on the theme, "Patriotic of North Vietnam, aboard the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt."

As a member of the FDR, he assisted in the launching of over 7000 combat and combat support missions against North Vietnamese military combat targets.

D. Steinkeller, associate professor of education at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus; Leon Kozien, local attorney; and Howard Kaseberg, president of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce.

The winning youth now advances to zone competition to be held April 11 at the Stratford Hotel in Alton. Successful candidates at the zone level then compete for district honors at the Central-Southern Illinois district convention to be held May 19, 20 and 21 in Champaign.

District winners are eligible to compete at the Optimist International convention June 12-14 at Portland, Ore., when top candidates receive $1000 scholarships and runners-up $500 scholarships.

Two years ago, Graham went on to take first place wins at the Optimist International contest in New Orleans, La.

Other contestants in Thursday's event, included Curt Kozien, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Kozier, 2545 Waterman avenue, William Logas, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Logas, 1012 Wellington avenue, Ricky Rose, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rose, 1803 Spring avenue; Frank Serrano, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Young, 3033 Dale avenue, and Steve Stagner, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Penitres, 3145 Carlson avenue, all students at Coolidge junior high school; Daniel Monken, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Monken, 2301 Lee avenue, and Robert Pickrell, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. ## International Mail Rates to Go Up May 1

An increase in international surface and airmail rates averaging 13% will go into effect May 1 to help offset a current operating deficit of approximately $18 million annually in international postal service, local postmasters said today.

The increase is not applicable to mailings for members of the Armed Forces overseas. However, domestic postage rates are applicable to mail addressed through APO's and FPO's.

Provisions of the new rate change include the increasing rate for airmail letters to Central America and the Caribbean area from 13 cents per half ounce to 15 cents. Airmail to the rest of the Western Hemisphere will remain unchanged at 15 cents per half ounce excluding Mexico and Canada.

An increase from 15 cents to 20 cents per half ounce for airmail to Europe and Mediterranean Africa also is included in the change. Airmail letter rates to the rest of the world will remain unchanged at 25 cents per half ounce.

A general increase of 2 cents for airmails and air post cards also is included in the change, and items sent by air, other than parcels and letters, such as books and periodicals and other printed matter will be increased 10 cents per piece to all countries except Canada is included in the Postmaster General's recommendations.

Hospital Starts Razing Homes for New Parking Lot

St. Elizabeth Hospital obtained permits to raze six homes in the 2100 block of Iowa street last week to make way for its parking lot facilities.

It is the first move in the hospital's expansion and improvement program.

The homes are located at 2100, two at 2104, at 2108, 2110 and 2116 Iowa street. The work is being done by the M. H. Wolfe Co. at a cost of $500 each.

Eight permits were issued for new building and remodeling projects during the first part of March. They were obtained by: Maurice Hemphill, 2237 Waterman avenue, a room addition, $200; L. E. Elledge, 1041 Ferguson avenue, a garage, $1000; Raymond Schorff, 2618 Sheridan avenue, a carport, $150; Cleveland Smith, 2001 National avenue, a garage, $800; James Phalen, 2200 Elm street, install aluminum siding, $1800; James W. Brimm, 2212 Ohio avenue, install steel siding, $1350; Dorothy Ashlock, 1208 Madison avenue, install siding, $1800; and C. R. Wilson, 2228 Ohio avenue, install steel siding, $1500.

Other permits to raze structures were issued to Elbert Canzatti at 2134 Illinois avenue, at no cost, and to Howard Painter, a three-room dwelling at 2527 Buxton avenue at a cost of $45.

Tax Aid in GC Each Monday Until April 10

A reminder that the deadline, April 17, is fast approaching for taxpayers who have not as yet filed their federal income tax returns was issued today by Jay C. Philpott, district director of Internal Revenue for central and southern Illinois.

Income tax returns for 1966 must be filed before midnight April 17, or if mailed, postmarked prior to the midnight deadline. If filed by mail, the return should be addressed to the District Director of Internal Revenue, Springfield, Ill. 62704.

Philpott said that taxpayers who are required to file unless their gross income was $1200 or more.

Self-employed persons must file a return if their self-employment was $400 or more, even though gross income was less than $600.

Philpott said assistance will be available to Quad-City area residents each Monday from 9 a.m. noon and 1 to 4 p.m. through April 10 on the third floor of the city hall in Granite City.

When visiting for assistance, taxpayers are urged to have all pertinent records available.

Philpott again reminds those who have not yet filed to carefully check their returns prior to mailing. The principal reasons for erroneous or incomplete returns are: omitted or incorrect Social Security numbers and failure to sign, to attach necessary schedules and to list exemptions that are claimed. Numerous mathematical errors are also common. Use of an incorrect tax table to determine the tax due.

Traffic on McKinley Bridge in 1962 Volume

With five months of the current fiscal year completed, McKinley Bridge traffic has increased 1,040,168 vehicles, a lower volume at this point than in any year since October 1961. February 1962, when the figure was $1,852,579. Opening of the Interstate Route 270 free bridge last Labor Day is blamed for the drop in traffic.

Henry K. McMullen, manager of the Venice-owned bridge, has estimated crossings for February, consisting of $2,354 the first week, $9,766 the second week, $8,128 the third week and $8,484 the final week.

The tally was $62,641 for February 1966 and 2,000,914 for the five-month period ending there.

Daily traffic averages are 12,574 for the month just ended and $2,863 for the fiscal year. In 1965-66, when McKinley traffic hit 5,088,099, the daily figure was 13,941.

Conservation Officers in State are Busy

Last year was a busy one for conservation officers. They obtained 5387 convictions for violations of game, fish and boating regulations and state park rules. The number of convictions was 1059 higher in 1966 than in 1965. Fines add totaled 770,713.

Violations of the Game Code accounted for almost half of the convictions. There were 1143 convictions for disregarding fishing laws; 1693 for boating violations and 56 for ignoring state park rules.

William T. Lodge, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation, attributed the increase to the more efficient use of personnel and better equipment for the law enforcement division.

Mental Health Week Program Being Planned

Activities for Mental Health Week, May 1-7 were discussed last week at Alton State Hospital by staff personnel representing 13 various departments. The committee was headed by chairman Dr. Thomas McConahey, activity program supervisor.

This preliminary conference was devoted to establishing the types of activities that will take place, and assigning members certain functions relating to the observance.

Open House will be held Sunday, April 30 from 1 to 4 p.m. The dates for special events during the week have not been determined as yet. However, tentative plans are being made for team speakers from the various disciplines to visit high schools within the 17-county area that the hospital services, and participate in the schools' own Career Day. At a later date, other than Mental Health Week, the hospital will hold a Career Day for all students especially interested in the mental health field.

Similar plans are being formulated by Protestant Chaplain Warren Wyrick and Catholic Chaplain Louis Sanderger this year. Instead of having the customary Psychiatry and Religion Day at the hospital, they are conducting workshops for ministers and clergy within the communities that are geographically covered by the hospital.

Dr. McConahey named Mark Younggren, industrial therapist, coordinator of activities for Open House, Sunday, April 30.

Bill Regulating Stores Of Colleges Before Senate

A bill regulating items to be sold by stores operated by state universities and colleges, including the new bookstore at the Southern Illinois University-Southern campus is now before the state senate after being passed by the Illinois House by a 157-5 vote last week.

Offered by House Speaker Ralph T. Smith of Alton, the bill sets guidelines which the stores are expected to follow. It will prohibit school stores from selling books, foods, beverages and certain items of clothing.

A proposal to include Southern Illinois University in a new state board of regents system was dropped because of opposition from area legislators. SIU will continue to operate under its own board of trustees.

The system will include Northern Illinois University, Western Illinois University and Illinois State University. Officials of the Board of Higher Education felt that SIU was not compatible in size or history with the other schools.

Young Drivers Bill

Rep. Sam Vadalabene of Edwardsville reported that the Senate approved a bill concerning drivers of 18 and under and sent it to the House for action.

The bill provides that the youths will be unable to get a driver's license until they have passed a driver's training course approved by the state superintendent of public instruction.

A new version of the "stop and risk" bill was passed by the Senate 46-0 and sent to the House. A similar bill was vetoed two years ago by Gov. Kerner.

Question Suspects

The new version would allow a policeman to stop and question a person he suspects has committed, is committing or is about to commit a crime.

It also provides that a policeman can search a suspect, but only if he fears he is in danger of attack. The only evidence turned up in a search that could be used as evidence would be weapons. A 1963 bill provided that anything found in a search could be used as evidence against the suspect.

Gov. Kerner called for legislation prohibiting strikes by public employees, including teachers, but setting up arbitration services.

Trade unionists were expected to object, but Dr. Martin Wagner, chairman of a commission on labor-management policy for public employees which presented a report, said that the prohibition to strike already is a matter of public policy set by the Illinois Supreme Court.

He said arbitration and mediation processes would provide an orderly method of getting information about money needs for salaries back to legislature.

Annual Legislative Sessions

A possibility of annual sessions for the Legislature without a constitutional amendment was noted by Speaker Smith. He said there may be a legislative session in 1968 to take a look at state problems.

Under new House and Senate rules, no bill may be introduced in the House after May 1, and all bills introduced in the House must be voted upon by June 7 or be automatically killed. The last 23 days of the session will be devoted to consideration of Senate bills.

The procedure for handling bills will be reversed in the Senate, the last three weeks being devoted to House bills.

A sidewalk shooting on March 3 occurring in the 1100 block of State street in which a Madison resident suffered an ankle wound did not happen in front of Minnie's Tea Tavern, the Press-Record was advised by Raymond Weeks, co-owner of the tavern with his wife.

Weeks said the incident occurred at least four doors north of the tavern, and that the victim had not been in the tavern, as reported to Madison police.

Amvets 51 Improving

Clubhouse Grounds

Plans to continue upgrading and refurbishing the grounds surrounding Amvets Post 51 clubhouse at 5100 Lakeview drive again are under way, Russell Robinson, club financial officer, has announced.

A park-type commercial swing set will be delivered within the next ten days. Volunteer workers from the club plan to install a volleyball court and complete restoration of the children's play area, Robinson said.

The commander of the Rock Island Arsenal has advised the local post that it has been granted a priority number in its efforts to obtain a world war II artillery piece for display on the club grounds. Delivery is expected in about six months.

This week, arrangements are being finalized for two special activity events. A St. Patrick's Day corned beef and cabbage supper will be held at the post home, starting at 4 p.m., Saturday, followed by an Easter Egg Hunt at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 24.

The local veteran's group also voted to purchase quantities of lapel pins, decals, tee shirts and other articles decorated with the Amvets emblem which will be re-sold to members.

Robert Harrison, Amvets Post 51 service officer, reported that two members presently confined in hospital are Henry Weber, a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital, and Joe Bresse, manager of the Granite City Army Depot golf course, who is confined at Jefferson Barracks Hospital.

Cong. Price Urging Nationwide Trails

Congress was urged to take immediate action on nationwide systems of trails legislation by Cong. Melvin Price (D), East St. Louis, who spoke last week before the House subcommittee on National Parks and Recreation.

Pointing to the rapid consumption of land because of population pressures and urban land sprawl, Cong. Price warned: "Our nation is faced with a crisis that requires immediate, concerted action at all levels of government."

"For too long we have left land to chance, hoping that it would be used for recreation. Now we are faced with a crisis that requires immediate action. No longer are we blessed with such an abundance of land that we can afford the luxury of a haphazard, lackadaisical approach to its use."

Price presently is endeavoring to have the U. S. Department of Interior designate the Lewis & Clark Park north of the Quad-Cities as a historic landmark. It was the site of the 1803 winter headquarters and training camp of the Lewis and Clark expedition. He offered an amendment to have the Lewis & Clark Trail start from that site rather than St. Louis.

Price, following this, urged the committee to authorize the Mississippi River Trail study. Another national trail bill, H.R. 4858, which the committee is considering does not authorize the study.

"Should the study be authorized," Price said, "I would hope that every consideration will be given to locating the trail on the east side of the river, at least for the stretch of the River running the length of the state of Illinois."

He explained that the Great River Road, for which he was seeking funds, ran along the east bank of the river.

"Paralleling the River Road, the Mississippi River Trail would be a suitable complement and conceivably could bisect the Lewis and Clark Trail," he suggested.

"These arteries could give rise to substantial tourism development in southern Illinois, an area sorely wanting for economic diversion."

Price concluded, explaining that his bill provided aid for the development of metropolitan trails "in our urban ghettos."

BRONZE STAR MEDAL WINNER. Staff Sgt. Marshall E. Oglesby (right), receives congratulations from Col. Frederick A. Sturm, adjutant general of Ft. Eustis, Va., following recent presentation ceremonies. The serviceman, a son of Marshall Oglesby, 2119a Bryan avenue, earned the award for heroism in Vietnam in September.

Son of Local Man Wins Bronze Star in Vietnam

Heroism while wounded and under fire in Vietnam has resulted in a Bronze Star Medal for Staff Sgt. Marshall E. Oglesby, a son of Marshall Oglesby, 2119a Bryan avenue, and Mrs. Edith Oglesby of Wickliffe, Ky. He received the citation and Star in recent ceremonies at Fort Eustis, Va.

The serviceman earned the award Sept. 8 while serving as a convoy escort in Vietnam. When his patrol jeep was ambushed and came under heavy fire from several enemy positions, Sgt. Oglesby was wounded four times, ignoring his wounds, the soldier immediately speeded up his vehicle to remove his patrol partner, who also had been wounded, from the danger, the citation stated.

Returning to the convoy, Sgt. Oglesby ordered it to stop before the area of the ambush was reached and later directed artillery fire on the enemy position. He then drove his badly damaged jeep to a military police check point.

In presenting the medal Col. Frederick A. Sturm, Fort Eustis adjutant general, read the accompanying citation, which stated in part: "Through his fearlessness and immediate action Oglesby saved his patrol from possible death and prevented the convoy from entering the ambush area."

Presently assigned as provost marshal of the 504th Military Police Company at Fort Eustis, Sgt. Oglesby entered the Army in 1954. He was last stationed in Vietnam with the First Air Cavalry Division. He also holds the Purple Heart Medal.

Sgt. Oglesby's wife, Dorothy, resides at the Patrick Henry Trailer Park in Newport News, Va.

The special March inquiry will ask about the number of children in a family, the quarter of the year of individual births, whether the household remained in the same house or county during the previous year, and family income. Answers to these questions will supplement the regular Decennial Census of Population, which is updated each year through surveys of a sample of the population.

The identity of those questioned is kept completely confidential and the facts obtained are used for statistical purposes. These questions will be asked of all households in the survey throughout the United States, Director Olson said.

'Tonic' for Weary Lawns Advised by SIU Expert

A proper fertilizer application early this spring may be the tonic needed for a weary lawn to keep it healthy, green, and growing evenly through the summer, says Joseph P. Vavra, Southern Illinois soils specialist.

Vavra says applying fertilizer later in the growing season could damage the sensitive growing plants which come in contact with the chemical molecules.

Lawns containing high percentages of grasses require about 20 pounds of 10-10-10, 12-12-12, or 10-4-4 fertilizer spread evenly per 1000 square feet of area, he explains. The 10-10-10 and 12-12-12 mixtures contain equal amounts of nitrogen, a plant-growth essential; phosphorus, vital for root development; and potash, which gives vigor and wearability into the lawn.

Vavra says lawns with about equal mixtures of grass and clover need less nitrogen and more potash and phosphorus. For these he suggests 10-pound applications of 0-20-20 fertilizers per 1000 square feet.

"Fertilizer should be spread uniformly over the area to avoid uneven growth and lawn color. Late in the summer, a person easily can see where he fertilized too heavily or too lightly, but then it's too late to do anything about it," Vavra warns.

While he cautions against applying fertilizer when the grass is wet with rain or dew, Vavra emphasizes the importance of watering grass immediately after fertilizer distribution to keep from burning the grass with the high salt content in the chemicals.

In the next article, James Tweedy, Southern turf specialist, will suggest mowing, watering, and weed-control procedures and how to make those unsightly bare spots disappear.

Regional School Systems Proposed For More Innovation, Improvement

By CLAUDIA BIKE
University of Illinois Student

"One of the most serious deficiencies of the public schools of the state is the very limited extent to which they have initiated and adopted educational innovations," the Illinois Task Force on Education has found.

For 19 months, the 37-man investigative group initiated by Gov. Otto Kerner studied needs of the state's elementary and secondary schools.

The districts are not well enough structured and organized to encourage innovations, the Task Force found.

The group suggested consolidation on the regional and local levels, realizing the size of enrollment and financial resources help determine the capacity of a district to create new ideas.

For instance, districts in the state along county lines leaves the county superintendent of Lake county with 57 districts to supervise and the Pope county superintendent only one district. (Madison county has 15 school districts).

The Task Force proposes that reorganized intermediate districts have a minimum of about 15,000 pupils and larger numbers in areas of high concentration of population.

Where possible it has suggested that the intermediate districts conform to the boundaries of junior college districts.

Duties of the regional superintendent would be to "operate and supervise special programs and services such as: educational research; instructional materials; pupil personnel services; and other services that cannot be provided adequately in most districts except on a shared basis."

Boundaries Set By State

As proposed, the state department of education would prepare a master plan for the state, following a statewide survey and the cooperation of local boards and citizens. The state board of education, if created, would establish the districts, according to the plan.

The office of county superintendent of schools then would be eliminated. This would take a constitutional amendment.

The county office served as a link between the state and local districts in the past, but, according to the report, developments in data processing with electronic computers have eliminated the need for intermediate processing of reports and records that this office has handled.

Also, Task Force members asserted that teachers and other staff members have been expert and professional in local districts that the county office could be of little effective assistance.

In deciding to recommend in-

Hillside Drainage Plan Still Will Be An Unfair Burden on Quad-City Property Owners

The Illinois legislature enacted a sound law several years ago banning non-referendum East Side Levee & Sanitary District bond issues. It should not permit this to be circumvented by the latest spending proposal, unveiled at last week's levee board meeting.

Although calling principal attention to the often-discussed hillside drainage plan—$3,160,000 in property tax bonds would be issued and $3,680,000 would be borne by the federal government—an engineering report also outlined $910,000 re-engineering work and $1,722,000 new projects, including Venice and Pontoon Beach area stormwater lines.

Authority apparently will be sought to breach the bond prohibition for hillside drainage, but also for the other projects, meaning up to $5,792,000 in new debt for Quad-City and East St. Louis area property owners.

Of the $13,170,613 present bonding power, $3,707,613 will be unused as of Dec. 31, 1967, and about $775,000 more becomes available each year.

Levee President Toland and others have admitted in the past that hillside drainage should be a state or regional undertaking. Certainly, the Quad-City area would receive few benefits despite the fact that it would be bearing about half of the tax cost.

Except for East St. Louis politicians' desire to spend public money, it doesn't make sense for them to ask the General Assembly once again to foist such a project on property owners unwilling (if given a voice) to finance it. As the district's own engineering report says, a good part of the problems are . . . originated from areas outside the district.

Senator Simon and other legislators from this area helped end the success of a bond issue for levee and other projects, but they were not consulted before being presented the bill.

Infusion of Madison county representation has led to some improvements in levee board practice, but the control remains in St. Clair county and effective purchasing, bidding and hiring reforms have been stymied.

Illinois legislators must not retreat from their action curbing constant expansion of levee board programs that ignore the public's needs and wishes. There must be no "back door" circumvention of the Illinois legislative ban on bond issues without a referendum.

GLAD TEENAGERS BANNED FROM LIQUOR STORE JOBS

Why haven't papers like the Press-Record printed more about the teenagers working in liquor stores? Are they afraid of step-mothering?

A teenager can buy cigarettes or liquor. Yet, he has been allowed to work in a liquor store. What is wrong?

Hats off to those who print the facts and aren't afraid to print everything.

FIFTH WARD ALDERMAN HAS SERVED TOO LONG

To the Editor: I at one time lived in Alderman Walter Nonn's ward. After moving from the Fifth Ward to the Fourth Ward four years ago, I am definitely in favor of at-large voting, but he is not allowed to run in a liquor store. What is wrong?

Hats off to those who print the facts and aren't afraid to print everything.

Housing Limits Aspirations, Hope

By SEN. PAUL SIMON

Should someone who builds a subdivision of 100 new homes have the right to say that there can be no Negroes, Jews, Catholics or Presbyterians in that subdivision? Perhaps a majority of the legislators believe he should not have that "right" for reasons I will spell out later in this column.

Should someone who has a home and wants to discriminate in its sale against certain racial or religious groups have the right to say that "right" legislators have a "right" should be protected.

Somewhere between these two positions may come some kind of compromise legislation—but in the meantime legislators will be receiving much advice on the issue from sincere and heated advocates of both sides of the question. The opponents call it "forced housing" and supporters call it "fair housing."

Prospects Doubtful

Senator Cecil Partridge of Chicago, who has been the legislative leader in the matter for several sessions, has proposed a temporary commission to work out a compromise, and it is possible one can see the prospects are not bright, however.

Actually the states which have open housing legislation have had a very good experience with it, and among its strongest supporters in those states are the real estate groups which originally opposed it.

The legislation tends to stabilize real estate values (because it reduces the buying and selling) and has afforded some new housing opportunities for minority groups.

The greatest problem in Illinois is in the field of housing for Negroes. Tragically, the majority of the white population does not understand the severity of the problem.

The present discrimination in housing results in ghettos, slums, areas of our cities which are all-Negro. And ghettos smell. "But," says the Swedish realtor, "my father grew up in a Swedish ghetto and lifted himself out of it. Why can't the Negro do the same?"

For the Swede—and every group other than the Negro—there has always been an escape valve. There was hope that the Negro could get enough money to escape the ghetto. And you could see the Negro in the neighborhood where they didn't know if you were Swedish or English, German or Irish.

No Escape Valve

But the Negro does not have that escape valve. He is—with rare exceptions—destined to live in a ghetto no matter how

Gains, Setbacks in Developments Related to City Council Election

In retrospect, the doubt and turmoil surrounding the 1967 Granite City municipal election cannot mask the fact that voters will be better off in many ways this spring than in previous city balloting.

If voting takes place on the basis of the eight wards created in January, as now seems probable, there will be a substantially greater balance in representation; extreme population inequities of the past have been eliminated.

In many but not all cases, there will be a single polling place in each precinct for Granite Cityans to visit April 4 in casting their city and township votes. This will sharply reduce the inconvenience encountered in past dual elections.

Depending on the speed with which the Appellate Court acts on council members' appeal of the Circuit Court order, there is still a possibility of an at-large aldermanic election, with each candidate running on a city-wide basis. This would be a refreshing development, placing more emphasis on issues confronting the entire community than not overlooking neighborhood problems.

And there seems to be a possibility that council size will be trimmed to 4 aldermen in seven wards, next year if not this year. This will comply with the law and end concern over the legality of governmental actions.

Setbacks have been encountered by the municipality and the public, however. The court order undoubtedly curtailed ward filing when several days still remained; these days have long since elapsed, and any reopening of eight-ward filings seems unlikely.

In some instances, this little or no opposition where substantial competition might have developed. Principals' gains may be those councilmen who helped delay or block at-large voting.

Depending on the action taken regarding the various types of petitions that were filed, capable aspirants for council positions may find themselves unable to seek office, their right to do so ridden in a crossfire between the calendar and court processes.

Although a few uncertainties remain, one thing already is crystal clear. The 1967 Granite City election is one that will not soon be forgotten—a gain in terms of the marked increase in citizen interest.

"Do Something, For Someone, Somewhere"

"It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness."

All people could concentrate their efforts to overcome poverty, sickness and ignorance, the world would be transformed. During World War II, Rotary International was calling attention to the "urgent needs everywhere" and asking Rotarians and others to "do something, for someone, somewhere."

With millions of children dying of malnutrition in such countries as India and China, the overall challenge is more than any one organization or nation can solve. But the 193-country program linked to this week's Rotary International meeting is a good one. It is a program of many tangible accomplishments that cannot help but improve worldwide understanding and friendship.

Projects have taken many forms—Australians supplying farmers in India with steel plows. English providing ambulances for use in the African bush and Swiss equipping a floating medical clinic for Hong Kong.

Life is too short for any to allow their knowledge or experience or time go to waste. Community service is a rewarding and necessary activity, and the entire world is in many ways a single community.

"Do something, for someone, somewhere."

The appeal is broad, but the potential gains are great.

Medical Cost Lining Explained

By JAY G. PHILPOTT

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is intended to provide taxpayers with a service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers and is not intended to provide a substitute for professional advice.

Q—Are you going to put out a table showing what my 1966 tax return will be when the surcharge is added?

A—The 6% tax surcharge provided by the President does not affect the tax return. Therefore, the tax tables and schedules in the 1040 instructions need not be changed for this year's weekly rate of pay.

Q—I'm over 65 and I've heard that, starting this year, my medical expenses for taxes will be deductible. Does that affect my 1966 return?

A—No, it does not. Allowable medical expenses for taxpayers 65 and over will be fully deductible on 1966 returns.

Q—The change will come next year. How can I get a refund on 1967 income. Then the medical expenses of older taxpayers will be deductible as those of taxpayers under 65.

A—The exclusion under both rules is limited to $75 per week for the part of the first 30-day period in which you are entitled to the exclusion. After that, it becomes $100 per week.

Q—Where should I list the alimony income I receive?

A—Use line 7, on page 2 of Form 1040. Prizes and awards, such as tax refunds and other miscellaneous items should be entered here.

Q—My wife and I are filing a joint return and the Social Security withheld from both our salaries exceeds the maximum. Can we take a credit for this?

A—The maximum applies to the Social Security tax withheld from each taxpayer. Only the amounts in excess of $27.50 are held from your salary, or your wife's, may be claimed as a credit against income tax liability.

Powerful Laser, Maser and Quasar Easy to Understand—It Says Here

(AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF PHYSICS)

Quasars masers? And what's new with lasers? The questions are timely, and the words do have meaning. The dictionary defines laser (light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation) as a device that utilizes the stimulation of high energy atoms by light for amplifying a beam of light.

Maser, or microwave amplification, uses the natural oscillation of constituent atoms or molecules for amplifying or producing electromagnetic waves. It is useful in detecting weak signals and in many other applications.

Quasar does not appear in Webster's collegiate dictionary, but the American Institute of Physics' Glossary of Terms Frequently Used in Relativistic Astrophysics says it is a quasar, or quasi-stellar object.

Emits Light and Radio Waves

Star-like in appearance, the quasars emit visible light at a rate equivalent to a large galaxy by about two powers of ten—and radio waves at a rate comparable to the strongest radio galaxies.

Everything clear so far? What brings the subject to mind is that a scientific study of the quasars is being conducted by the University of California, Los Angeles, has suggested that the quasars are first discovered by astronomers in 1960, may actually be a type of maser. This would solve one of the most puzzling mysteries of astronomers and physicists.

Quasars have been observed at as great undetermined distances as 10 billion light years. They are periodically fluctuate in amount of radio energy they emit. Recently, scientists have been wondering how an object as large as a quasar could fluctuate as rapidly as it does.

From his research at the University of California, Dr. Richard McCarty has suggested an answer. He suggests that quasars are the result of a mechanism makes possible the amplification of radio energy as it is generated within the

The new device was constructed by Max Meier and Professor Wolfgang Kaiser, both of the Technische Hochschule, Munich, and Dr. Joseph A. Raman. The apparatus utilizes the Raman effect, a phenomenon in which light (light of a wavelength only passes through a transparent substance. In the Raman effect, some of the light is scattered from the path of the original beam and emerges from the medium with a changed wavelength.

The new device employs a liquid (or gas) filled with a transparent substance, a transparent liquid with the desired optical properties. In this cell, the Raman effect occurs.

Watch the Backward Kick

A small fraction of the laser light is scattered in the same direction as the original laser beam, and emerges from the cell in a forward direction. Most of the scattered light, however, emerges from the cell in a backward direction (opposite to that of the original laser light). This backward light pulse is measured by instruments which split the pulse into two beams. The two beams are led along different optical paths and are recombined in a special crystal. The two beams are recombined in a special crystal. The two beams are recombined in a special crystal.

Synchrotron radiation is radiation given off by electrons in a magnetic field, which forces the electrons to assume a circular orbit.

Dr. McCarty says there may be some mechanism which gives beams.

Avoid Inheritance Tax on Stocks

By THOMAS E. O'HARA
Chairman, National Association of Investment Clubs

I have $79,000 invested in a reliable mutual fund and, because I have other financial interests, expect to have no need of that $79,000 principal.

I am a widower with seven children and have been married by business friends that I can escape inheritance taxes by selling the mutual funds and buying blue chip securities, which I can then purchase into approximate $100,000, and listing myself and a different one of my seven children as joint owners of each.

A. Your question is correct? Can be better answered by an attorney. However, it is my understanding that regardless of whether a stock is held solely in your name or jointly by you and one of your children, it still will be included in your estate so far as estate taxes are concerned.

"Estate taxes" are taxes which will have to be paid by your estate. "Inheritance taxes" are the taxes paid by the recipient.

There would be this advantage to hold securities jointly in your name and the name of your children: such joint holdings would not have to go through probate, thus saving that expense.

Rather than disposing of your mutual fund shares to accomplish this, you can probably achieve

Fine Arts Festival at SIU-SW to Feature Art, Dance, Music and Theatrical Stars

Prominent figures from the world of art, dance, music and the theater will come to Southern Illinois University's Southwestern campus this spring to participate in its first annual Fine Arts Festival, which will climax a year-long dedication of the new campus.

Beginning April 16 and running through June 8, the festival will be launched with a Contemporary American Art Show and a performance by the New York Pro Musica troupe. W. MacNeil Lowry, vice-president of the Ford Foundation, will be principal speaker at the afternoon keynote ceremony.

The exhibition, selected from leading galleries, museums and private collections, will include sculpture, paintings and prints done within the past 10 years by America's most noted living artists. It will remain on view through May 15.

Pro Musica, consisting of 10 separate troupes, has been selected to perform on both sides of the Atlantic. It has been acclaimed in the Soviet Union and at festivals in Bavaria, Vancouver, Berlin, Spain, Holland, Israel, Spoleto, Dubrovnik and Rio de Janeiro.

Dedication to Arts Quality In announcing the festival events, Andrew Kochman, dean of the sponsoring Fine Arts Division, said, "During these seven weeks we will be dedicating our recently completed Communications Building and its theater, but more important we will be dedicating ourselves to presenting a quality fine arts program to the people of Illinois who have made all of this possible."

"Throughout history, man has used the festival as a means of expressing thanksgiving, hope and encouragement. Our rationale for establishing an annual fine arts festival is to be found in this tradition. Each spring will be the occasion for giving special note to the best of man's art expression."

A three-part festival movie series and a one-man show by sculptor Donald Judd are also scheduled. The First Chamber Quartet, young American dancers under Columbia Artists management, will appear on campus May 1.

Paul Mann, prominent New York actor, director and theatrical consultant, will direct a production of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness," to be presented by the University Theater June 1, 2, and 3. On leave from the Kennedy Center, Mann will supervise casting for the play and will be on hand for the entire festival, lecturing and coaching.

Additional theatrical events include presentations of "The Ex-ception and the Rule" and "The Elephant Call," two of Bertolt Brecht's short plays staged by the Brect Plays Company of New York.

Pantomime Performances The Yakim Pantomime Troupe of New York's Pantomime Theatre will present a children's matinee, "The Emperor's Nightingale," on May 6, as well as a full-length evening production of "The Silent Sage." Both feature Saloman and Mina Yakim fine arts festival is to be found in this tradition. Each spring will be the occasion for giving special note to the best of man's art expression."

Such well-known music personalities as American composer Daniel Pinkham, French flutist Michel Debost, pianist Ruth Sienzyńska and singer-composer Eugene Haynes will appear during the festival.

Under terms of a $20,000 Rockefeller Foundation grant, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will spend five days in May at SIU-SW, performing works by composers from a six-state midwestern region. The orchestra will give a concert at SIU-SW on May 5 and another at SIU's Carbondale campus May 6.

Recitals by SIU Fine Arts Division faculty members and ensembles will be given during the festival. Instrumental ensembles will round out the seven-week gala.
